Taft-Hartley Law Invoked To Halt Soft Coal Strike

Joint Chiefs Visit Okinawa, Key U. S. Base

Tough Stand Mapped Against Communism

By RUSSEL BRINES

TOKYO—(AP)—The U. S. joint chiefs of staff today looked over Okinawa, key air base in the American defense line facing Communist-troubled Asia.

In Japan, the four top military commander sleft this general impression after five days of secret strategy conferences with General MacArthur and his experts:

The U. S. may take a tougher stand against the spread of Communism in the Orient and back it up with more attention to American military needs in this part of the world.

More Manpower Needed

On the basis of my several recent visits to Okinawa, here are some of the things local commanders probably will stress in talks to the joint chiefs:

1. Communist control of Formosa—only 350 miles to the southwest—would be a serious menace to Okinawa and the American defense line that runs down the Aleutians through Japan to the Philippines.

2. The U. S. should retain control indefinitely of Okinawa—a conviction also held by MacArthur's experts in Tokyo.

3. Construction of typhoon-resistant barracks, homes, hangars and warehouses should be continued without interruption although the project may cost $350,000,000.

4. Assignment of more air and ground force equipment to Okinawa and possibly more manpower.

5. Hastening of the restoration of Okinawa's economy as a bulwark against Red infiltration.

There was no official inkling of what the joint chiefs might report to President Truman and national defense planners on their return to Washington via Guam, Kwajalein and Hawaii.

However, it was evident that high officers of MacArthur's command urged a bolder American attitude to save a situation they regard as critical.

Deadline Near In Phone Tieup

Federal Mediation At Crucial Stage

NEW YORK,—(AP)—Federal mediation efforts to prevent a nationwide telephone strike reached a crucial stage today with the deadline less than 48 hours away.

Company and CIO union representatives resume their talks with the help of the mediators after a Sunday recess.

Cyrus S. Ching, head of the U. S. mediation and conciliation service, said his staff would be able to tell by this afternoon "whether we are getting anywhere."

A union attorney said on the eve of today's meeting that "at the moment there is no indication of any change in the x x x situation."

The meeting was between representatives of the Western Electric company, Manufacturing and Installing Subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegrath company, and the CIO Communications Workers of America.

A strike is threatened for 6 a. m., Wednesday in a dispute over wages, hours, vacations, pensions, training periods and other issues.

Search Demanded In High Places For Atom Secret Leaks

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Bridges (R-NH) today demanded a search "in high places" for any American contacts of Klaus Fuchs, German-born British scientist accused of giving atomic secrets to Russia.

Bridges told a reporter FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover will be questioned about that point tomorrow by a senate appropriations subcommittee.

This group—of which Bridges is a member—already has talked with Hoover about the Fuchs case. The FBI chief had another date today to meet the senate-house atomic energy committee behind closed doors.

"This man Fuchs," Bridges said, "must have had contacts in this country and we must follow through to find those contacts, particularly to learn whether any of them tie into high places."

A person well acquainted with atomic developments, touching on the same theme, told a reporter that all the evidence thus far presented indicates that a number of other persons may have been involved with the British scientist.

This authority, who insisted on anonymity, said many atomic documents dating back to wartime have been missing for several years. "Fuchs and others who may have been involved in his case had access to these early plans," he said.

Senator McMahon (D-Conn.), chairman of the joint atomic committee, said over the weekend that his group is considering whether this country might try to extradite Fuchs for possible trial here.

He added, however, that the committee's lawyer's doubt that this can be done.

Some members of the group said they also had under study a possible recommendation that in the future no foreigners be given access to secrets unless they are screened in advance by the FBI.

Lt. Gen. Leslie G. Groves, retired wartime director of the atomic project, told the senate-house committee Saturday that Fuchs was taken into this nation's innermost atomic circles as a member of a delegation of 20 British scientists.

Fuchs' background was not investigated here, Groves said, because he had British security clearance.

Groves was tentatively scheduled to testify at a public session of the senate-house group later in the day.

Present law bars any exchange of atomic weapons information with foreigners or foreign countries but there have been indications congress might be asked to relax this ban to take the British into fuller partnership.

Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.), a member of the appropriations group, said the Fuchs case revelations have convinced him that foreign representatives ought to be barred entirely from hydrogen bomb work.

Movie Actress Stars In Pulpit

Colleen Captivates Punxsutawney, Pa.

By ELAINE KAHN

PUNXSUTAMNEY, Pa.—(AP)—The Rev. Herman Humke and his flock today agreed that Colleen Townsend Sunday was an event comparable only to the burning of the church mortage in 1937.

Colleen, the young movie star who says she will forsake her career to follow God, preached the gospel from the pulpit of the Presbyterian church yesterday.

Her audience—numbering some 1200 who jammed the two morning services—was enchanted. Normal church attendance is 300.

Dr. Humke, who invited her to speak when he learned she was coming to this western Pennsylvania city for a movie premier, said:

"She is conscious of a message to God and is devoting her life to the fulfillment of what God wants her to do. During her two days in Punxsutawney she has captivated all of us with her charm, grace, thoughtfulness and all the qualities that make her so human."

Against a backdrop of glaring newsreel lights and flashing cameras, Miss Townsend told the Congregation why she is deserting "the happiest and most exciting life a girl ever led."

"The life of God is a complete life and I feel it can be found only through Christ," she explained, looking very pretty in a formfitting royal blue jersey dress with white trim.

Ranchers Isolated In Montana Blizzard; Much Livestock Dead

HELENA, Mont.,— (AP) —Snow plows and bulldozers churned their way along snow-clogged roads today, seeking to reach thousands of isolated ranchers and reservation Indians in northern Montana.

State and federal equipment, bolstered by county and reservation plows, worked along a 500-mile front embracing 14 counties and extending from Glacier National Park to the North Dakota line.

Yesterday's mild weather—the entire state had above zero temperatures for the second time since last Dec. 16—permitted the army of men and machines to make healthy progress in their attack on roads blocked by snowdrifts.

Gov. John W. Bonner said reports reaching him showed conditions are still "critical" in three counties — Glacier, Phillips and Valley.

An uncounted number of livestock are dead or dying.

Weather Aids Search For Plane Lost In Yukon With 44 Aboard

EDMONTON, Alta.,—(AP)—Plane crews looked for improving weather today to aid in the continuing search for an Air Force C-54 which vanished Jan. 26 with 44 persons aboard.

Weather permitting, planes were expected to return to interior British Columbia where a searching B-29 bomber yesterday picked up an S. O. S. signal on the high frequency distress band.

The B-29, one of 10 flying out of Great Falls, Mont., picked up the signal north of Spokane.

Houghton's Airport Cleared For Traffic

HOUGHTON — Houghton and Hancock snow removal equipment were brought into play Sunday, along with that of the Houghton county road commission and a 5,400-foot runway at Memorial airport has been cleared of snow. The airport now is open to traffic and both Wisconsin Central and Nationwide Airlines are using port again.

Planks Written For New G. O. P. 1950 Platform

Party Tees Off On U. S. Foreign Policies

WASHINGTON—(AP)— Republican platform drafters came up today with a 1950 statement on principles which GOP Chairman Guy G. Gabrielson called "critical but also constructive."

The platform declaration, cleared by three drafting committees, was ready for approval or rejection by all of the congressional Republicans and the full GOP National committee.

The preliminary outline indicated the GOP would tee off on administration foreign policies and what some Republicans called "infiltration" of high government offices by Communists and fellow travelers.

The foreign policy declaration was said to be sharply critical because the administration has not taken the Republicans into its confidence on many major international decisions— particularly those affecting Asia.

The allusion to Communist infiltration was an obvious reference to Alger Hiss. Hiss, a former state department official, was convicted on charges that he lied when he said he did not deliver secret state department documents to a Communist courier.

While the foreign policy declaration took the administration to task for failure to consult the Republicans, it didn't go far enough for some party members.

Werner W. Schroeder, Illinois National committeeman, had called for an end to the bi-partisan foreign policy.

Bomb Wrecks $100,000 Los Angeles Home, But Mickey Escapes Again

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—A gangland bomb wrecked Mickey Cohen's $100,000 radar-protected home before dawn today but the little mobster—leading his usual charmed life—escaped unhurt.

Mickey, his wife and a maid were home at the time—and the bedroom where Mickey usually sleeps is in pieces out in the front yard. His wife and the maid also were unhurt.

The damage—estimated at $50,000—was so great that police earlier reported that Cohen could not have been home and survived such a blast.

Kathryn Jones, the Cohen maid, called the West Los Angeles police station and hysterically reported there had been a "terrific" explosion at the Cohen home.

But the blast was so shattering that the police said they heard it even before Miss Jones called. The police station is three-and-a-half miles away from the Cohen home.

Cohen and his wife were sleeping at the rear of the house. Mickey described the blast thusly:

"About 4:15 (PST) this morning my alarm went off, that is my electric eye system. I got up and the eye system pointed at the particular part of the property that had been broken. I went to the front windows, didn't see anybody, and I didn't hear anybody. I went back to bed, that was about three minutes, and then the explosion came.

"I jumped out of bed to see what it was, ran to the front of the house. I have no idea what it was. It split the front door from top to bottom, plus every window in the house. I think the damage would be about $50,000."

This is the second attempt in less than a year to assassinate Cohen, boss of southern California's gambling rackets.

Last July 20, shotgun blasts met his party as it left Sherry's restaurant, a Sunset Strip cafe, in the pre-dawn hours. In that gangland-style shooting, Cohen was injured and Neddie Herbert, one of his henchmen, later died.

John C. Lodge Dies In Detroit

Pneumonia Fatal To Political Leader

DETROIT—(AP)—John C. Lodge, at 88 the dean of Detroit's political figures, died of pneumonia early today.

Former mayor, city councilman and alderman, Lodge was prominent in Detroit's political, industrial and financial life for more than half a century.

Lodge, a native Detroiter, was born in 1861. He started work as a reporter on the staff of the Detroit Free Press, and later served many years as city editor.

His first political office was that of state legislator in 1907. From 1908 to 1918, he was a city alderman, and after that became the first president of Detroit's newly-organized city council.

Lodge was elected mayor in 1927. Later he served several more terms on the common council. That was the post he was holding in 1947 when ill health forced him to withdraw from public life.

Sonsiderably stronger the following year Lodge accepted appointment to the Wayne county Board of Supervisors. At that time he told his friends:

"My whole trouble right now is that the darned old legs just won't operate like they did when I used to play baseball."

Atomic Propulsion To Be Developed For Ships And Airplanes

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho—(AP)—The atomic energy commission plans to begin this year designs for an atomic reactor to propel ships and airplanes. This announcement was made in a report released in Idaho Falls by the AEC's operations office dealing with atomic reactor developments at the ARCO Testing station.

The report said that, among other projects, the ARCO station will "help particularly in the development of reactors for the propulsion of aircraft."

Thin Ice Takes Life Of Boy At Belle Isle; Accidents Fatal To 15

(By The Associated Press)

A six-year-old Detroit boy whose father failed to heed "thin ice" warnings was one of Michigan's 15 fatal accident victims this weekend.

Tow-headed Howard Daughterty, jr., drowned in the lagoon at Belle Isle, recreation island in the Detroit river, when his toy sled broke through the ice.

Police said notices of thin ice had been posted in the area where Howard and his father were skating and sledding.

Five persons were killed in accidents involving trains, traffic mishaps claimed five more lives, three burned to death and a New Hudson man was killed when a horse he was exercising kicked him in the chest.

L. J. Klein, 23, was victim of the freak accident that occurred Sunday.

Train-car crashes killed four persons.

Mrs. Alice Adams, 54, and Otto Nelson, 61, both of Monroe, died early Sunday after their automobile was struck by a southbound Pennsylvania railway train at a Monroe crossing.

In a similar accident Saturday near Mackinaw City, Justie Thomas, 75, and his 21-year-old son, Joseph, both of Cheboygan, lost their lives.

Another passenger train struck Charles B. Millage, 63, a patient at Wayne county general hospital, while he was walking Saturday. Witnesses said Millage jumped in front of the train.

All three fire deaths occurred in Detroit.

Mrs. Lois Braxton, 28, died of burns suffered when fire swept a small Detroit hotel (The Touraine) early Sunday. More than 100 panic-stricken guests jumped out windows as the flames spread rapidly. A cigaret tossed into a waste basket was believed to have started the blaze that injured five other persons.

James Reed, 41, and his wife, Daisy, 43, burned to death Saturday night when a fire destroyed their small frame home. Ten others, including two children, escaped.

Lake Superior Ice Traps Trio

Rubber Raft Rescues Fishermen On Floe

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich.—(AP)—Three men who spent the night on an ice floe in Lake Superior climbed into a rubber raft dropped by a coast guard plane today and made their way across a half mile of open water to safety.

The three were marooned on the ice mass, about 400 feet in diameter, when it broke away from stationary ice along the shore Sunday.

Earlier, Neal Wyatt, a Sault Ste Marie flier who took off today and was believed stranded also, returned to Sault Ste. Marie. He had landed on stationary ice near the floating mass.

Wyatt had been unable to communicate with the trio except by gestures. He said judging from arm waving signs the men appeared to be in good health.

A plane from the coast guard station at Traverse City was called but its pilot, Lieut. (jg) J. W. Swanson, decided against landing and dropped the raft instead.

A short time before, Wyatt had flown over the men and also had dropped a raft. Later he landed for a second time on stationary ice and prepared the men's plane for the return home.

Machinists Trying To Get Back In AFL

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—(AP)—Leaders of the now Independent Machinists Union today tried anew to get back into the American Federation of Labor.

A delegation representing the 600,000 mmbers of the International Association of Machinists arrived for place meetings with the AFL's executive council.

The council, opening the second week of its winter meeting, had high hopes for a settlement in the long-standing controversy between the IAM and the AFL's Carpenter Union.

A fight over the right to represent machinery installation workers—claimed by each of the two—prompted the IAM to quit the AFL five years ago.

Western Michigan Becomes Hot Spot In Dope Traffic

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich.—(AP)—Illicit drug traffic in western Michigan is showing a "disturbing increase," according to Joseph L. Bell, chief of the Federal Narcotics Bureau in Detroit.

He conferred here recently with U. S. District Attorney Joseph Deeb and Grand Rapids chief of detectives Francis Sullivan about the possibility of establishing a full-time narcotics agent in Grand Rapids.

Western Michigan, Bell said, "is becoming almost as hot a spot as Detroit for illicit drug distribution." And that, he added, is "pretty hot," Because Detroit has been among the worst in the nation.

"We're going all out to stop this," he declared, claiming, however, that his department is "woefully undermanned." Because of that he could give no date for establishment of a Grand Rapids office.

The federal agent came here at the request of Deeb. There has been a large number of drug robberies and faked doctor's prescriptions in the Grand Rapids area in recent months.

During the conference, Bell praised the "outstanding cooperation" of western Michigan police departments in attempts to stamp out the deadly racket.

Youths Use Marijuana

He particularly praised the Kalamazoo department for its assistance in helping break up a narcotics ring operating out of Chicago. Kalamazoo, he said, had been made the Michigan distribution point for the ring.

The 14 arrests made there, he said, helped secure convictions in 37 other cases in the east.

The most troublesome drug in Michigan, the federal officer said, is heroin. He explained that this is because of its compactness and the ease with which it could be smuggled.

After being cut down, he said, one recent shipment of heroin had a resale value of approximately $77,000.

Other narcotics being distributed in Michigan, he stated are morphine and marijuana. Marijuana he declared, is making its greatest inroads among high school boys and girls.

Collision Kills 4 Near Pontiac

Fifth Youth In Auto Also Near Death

PONTIAC, Mich. — (AP) — Four occupants of a single automobile were killed this morning in a car-truck smash at the northern outskirts of Pontiac. A fifth was hospitalized with serious injuries and may not live.

The collision occurred at 4 a. m. (EST) on Oakland avenue (US-10) near the northern limits of the city when the car came over a hill and crashed into a truck heavily loaded with steel.

Killed were:

Robert Goode, 21, Pontiac.

Peter H. Williams, 21, Pontiac.

Robert Ramsey, Jr., 22, Pontiac.

Jerry Conrad, 20, of Drayton Plains.

It was not immediately learned which of the young men was the driver of the car.

Warden Aker of Dresden, Ohio, driver of the steel truck bearing two heavily loaded trailers, said he had stopped to make a left turn when the car carrying the five youths came over a hill and plowed into the truck.

Aker was not injured.

Editor Says Reds Have Already Set Off Super H-Bomb

LONDON—(AP) — The British editor who correctly predicted the Soviet Union would set off an atomic blast in 1949 today said the Soviets already have made and exploding a hydrogen super-bomb.

The editor is 40-year-old Kenneth De Courcy, editor of the monthly "Intelligence Digest" who claims to have sources of information on both sides of the Iron Curtain.

"There is now evidence of Russia having already made an H-bomb," De Courcy asserted in a statement to the press.

"She has in fact made three and exploded one of them," the statement declared.

De Courcy did not say when or where the purported hydrogen bomb was tested.

De Courcy in January, 1949, predicted that Russia would attempt an atomic explosion in 1949. President Truman in September revealed there had been an atomic blast in Russia.

Last Jan. 5 De Courcy predicted the Russians would attempt a second explosion, either on Jan. 7 or Jan. 10, in blasting for an Asiatic irrigation project.

Later he said this explosion had occurred as predicted, but there has been no confirmation from any other source.

The Frenchmen are Andre Simon Robineau, French consular secretary here, and Gaston Druet, who settled in the Baltic coast town of Slupsk after being taken prisoner of war in June, 1940.

Robineau's arrest Nov. 18 touched off a wave of arrests of French Nationals in Poland and Polish citizens in France which has resulted in severely strained relations between the two countries.

The 117-page indictment charges Robineau was sent to Poland as a French spy seeking military, economic and political information. He is alleged to have recruited Druet for his organization.

White House Takes Action In Fuel Crisis

Inquiry Board Named To Study Issues

WASHINGTON— (AP) — President Truman today invoked the Taft Hartley law in an effort to restore coal production.

He appointed a board of inquiry headed by David L. Cole, Paterson, N. J., lawyer, to look into the issues at dispute.

The other members are William W. Wirtz and John Dunlop.

In view of the emergency, the President instructed the board to report "not later" than one week from today.

Mr. Truman's move sets in motion T-H law procedures that could lead to a court order a week or 10 days from now for the miners to get back to work for 80 days.

Nearly 400,000 Idle

Whether the miners will pay any attention to a "stop-strike" order from the courts—provided one is issued—is a question.

John L. Lewis, the 70-year-old president of the United Mine Workers, told Mr. Truman last week that he doubted they would.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said Mr. Truman's order covered only the soft coal industry.

He said the three board members had accepted the appointments and would meet in Washington tonight to begin work.

When the President acted, reports from the coal fields indicated at least 360,000 of the 400,000 soft coal miners were idle.

Coal production was down to the merest trickle. Without it, many industries will have to close soon, throwing thousands out of work. In many cities, coal supplies for home heating are short.

Mr. Truman's order creating the board of inquiry said the dispute between the United Mine Workers and the soft coal industry "has resulted or threatens to result in a strike or lockout affecting a substantial part of the bituminous coal industry" and that the "strike or lockout, if permitted to occur or to con-

Hotel Fire Is Fatal To 5 At Eureka, Mont.

EUREKA, Mont.—(AP)—A predawn fire swept through a three-story frame hotel yesterday, killing five persons.

Dead were John Powell and Delano Grayson, members of the Browning high school basketball team; Charles Cameron, about 74, Eureka farmer; William Peterson of Eureka, Great Northern Railway employe, and Ed LaFrance, about 64, hotel clerk.

The fire destroyed the 25-room hotel, the Montana. The building also housed the post office, a bar, five apartments, and this northwestern Montana town's only telephone.

Other guests, including the rest of the Browning basketball team, escaped by jumping from windows.

Counties To Honor Former Jurist

Attorneys from five U. P. counties comprising the 5th judicial circuit Saturday held a dinner meeting in Escanaba to discuss professional problems. Atty. Michael Anuta of Menominee is president of the association, with membership from Menominee, Iron, Dickinson, Marquette and Delta counties.

Reports of various committees were heard in the afternoon session, followed by a dinner at the House of Ludington, with Atty. John Walsh of Marquette, commissioner of the Michigan State Bar, as the principal speaker.

It was reported by Attorneys L. P. Fisher of Iron Mountain and Robert H. Clark of Marquette that progress is being made in providing oil paintings of the Hon. Frank A. Bell, Marquette, dean of jurists and former judge of the 25th circuit. The five paintings, one for each of the court rooms in the five counties, will be unveiled later this year with suitable ceremonies.

Business of the meeting included a motion to distribute to bankers, notaries, justices of the peace, real estate agents, and other interested persons a pamphlet prepared by the Bar Association defining the practice of law. Designed to protect the public, the pamphlet defines what services non-lawyers may legally render.

Attending the meeting here, besides the host members of the Delta County Bar were the following:

Attorneys John J. Walsh, Aaron Lowenstein, John E. McDonald, Waldo A. McRae, Edward H. Dembrowski, Robert H. Clark, George C. Quinnell and Charles C. Rushton of Marquette county; Leigh Caswellm, L. Mr. Johnson was born in Elsebone, Sweden, Jan 14, 1866, and came to Gladstone in 1888. He was employed in the early years as a woodsman and laborer at the Pittsburgh Coal company's dock. He spent two and a half years in the Kimberly diamond mines in South Africa and prospected for gold in Wyoming. For some years, he conducted a pool hall in Gladstone.

Mr. Johnson resided at 403 Delta avenue, Gladstone.

Survivors include two nephews, Thomas and Arthur Johnson of Gladstone; and two sisters-in-law, Hilma Johnson of Garden and Martha Johannson, living in Sweden.

The body was taken to the Skradski funeral home, where friends may call beginning Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be held at the funeral home at 2 Wednesday afternoon, with Rev. Clifford Peterson officiating. Burial will be in the Gardens of Rest cemetery.

Driver Is Lucky When Car Strikes Bridge At River

Clarence Lang, 38, Cornell, escaped lightly when his auto struck a girder on the Escanaba River bridge at West Gladstone Saturday afternoon about 1:45 o'clock.

He sustained minor cuts on the forehead and the back of the left hand.

Lang, who is a school bus driver, told Michigan State Police who investigated that the steering apparatus on his auto was faulty and as he entered the bridge from county road 420 driving westward the auto veered to the left and into a steel girder.

The auto, a 1929 model, was considerably damaged. The bridge remained intact.

Sawmill Wage Minimum Set

New Rate Is 75 Cents Per Hour

CLEVELAND, O.—(AP) — Employees of sawmills must be paid at least 75 cents an hour—the new minimum rate under the Fair Labor Standards Act, William S. Singley, Cleveland, Regional Director of the Wage and Hour and Public Contracts Divisions, U. S. Department of Labor, warned today.

Singley's statement was issued after it was reported that many employers were erroneouly assuming that the exemption from the minimum wage and overtime provisions for less than 12 employees in woods operations, applied also to employees of sawmills.

"This exemption from the minimum wage and overtime provisions is restricted to small woods operations," Singley said. "It definitely does not apply to sawmills."

He quoted the exact language of the amended Act providing the exemption from the minimum wage and overtime provisions as follows:

"Any employee employed in planting or tending trees, cruising, surveying, or felling timber, or in preparing or transporting logs or forestry products to the mill, processing plant, railroad, or other transportation terminal, if the number of employees employed by his employer in such forestry or lumbering operations does not exceed twelve."

As an example of the restrictive nature of the exemption, he pointed out that the work of loading railroad cars with logs after the logs have been delivered and piled at the railroad would not be exempt.

Singley issued a further warning that the exemption does not apply in any degree to the child labor provisions of the Act.

"I want to emphasize that there is a minimum age of 18 years which applies to employment in most operations in both logging and sawmilling," he said.

1949 Fire Loss Over $61,000

Fire Department Answers 322 Calls

City firemen received a total of 322 calls during the year 1949, and total loss from these was $61,-905.10, Captain Clarence Schrader has announced.

Forty-four of these were dwelling fires, 22 car fires and 45 were false alarms. The remaining calls were in the general classicication and were for grass fires, chimney fires and other minor cases.

The fire department had one incendiary fire during the year. The adult who started it is now serving a prison sentence for the felony.

The inhalator was used by the fire department in 12 emergency calls. During the year 1949, the department answered 211 minor calls, caused by the following: careless smoking, careless use of matches, thawing frozen water pipes, oil burners, defective chimneys, defective furnaces and other heating units and unnecessary grass fires.

Two fire losses in the year 1949 were quite heavy. These were the Escanaba high school athletic field stadium and the Steel-Wallace building owned by the City of Escanaba. The two losses totaled $47,-500, including contents as well as the structures.

The cause of the stadium fire was not known. It is believed that the fire at the Steele-Wallace building was started by children playing with matches on one of the upper floors of the building.

After receiving treatment at Munising, Glazier obtained a ride to his home at Wells. From there his father, Fred Glazier, took him to the hospital for treatment.

U. P. Dairymen End Meeting With Banquet

The annual convention of the Upper Peninsula Dairy Manufacturers association closed with a banquet at the House of Ludington Saturday night. About two-hundred attended the two-day meeting.

An illustrated lecture on Europe was given at the banquet by Dr. G. M. Trout of Michigan State College, who showed beautiful color movies of farming, industry and other aspects of France, Belgium, Scandinavia and other countries. H. P. Lindsay of Escanaba served as toastmaster.

The Wolverine trophy, awarded each year to the dairy plant making the greatest improvements during the year, was presented to the Ontonagon Valley Co-operative of Bruce Crossing.

Speakers at Saturday's session included F. M. Skiver, chief of the bureau of dairying; Don Murray, Michigan State College; George McIntyre, state department of agriculture; and William Lutz, extension dairy specialist.

"Upper Peninsula farmers receive 18 million dollars annually from the sale of milk," said Lutz. "This is only one aspect of the dairy industry. The processor and distributor are the other members of the team.

"The success and prosperity of the industry depend on the ability of each group to do its job efficiently and well. Each shares some responsibility in providing the consuming public with top quality dairy products at reasonable prices.

"In recent years great advances have been made in improving the general quality of dairy products turned out by Upper Peninsula plants. Much of this is due to the excellence of the quality of milk produced and sold by farmers. Records show that milk produced by Upper Peninsula is greatly superior in quality to that produced in other parts of the state."

The dairy manufacturers association passed a resolution requesting the state agriculture commission to extend its efforts to include additional dairy facilities for control of production and processing of milk in Upper Michigan, and urged legislators from Upper Michigan and members of the house ways and means committee to help provide necessary funds for expansion of present facilities.

U. P. dairymen also passed a resolution commending certain groups for presenting the economic factors involved in removal of all taxes and restrictions from oleomargerine to the public before the referendum election in November 1950; and another resolution urging Congress and the state legislature to bring about a reduction in federal and state expenditures and to put the Hoover commission recommendations in effect.

In closing, the dairy manufacturers commended convention committees, convention speakers, the U. P. Development Bureau, the Michigan Milk Dealers association, the American Dairy association, Wolverines, and Escanaba institutions and business places for making the convention one of the most successful.

State Conservation Commission Job To Be Filled This Weck

By JAMES A. O. CROWE

LANSING—(AP)—The long-awaited appointment of a new member of the state conservation commission will be made by Governor Williams this week, it was indicated today.

Executive aides infer strongly that the appointee will be George Griffith of Grayling, a relatively new candidate for the office but one for whom a heavy groundswell of backing developed in the northern Lower Peninsula.

It is uncertain that the appointment will be made in time for the scheduled commission meeting Tuesday and Wednesday. Executive aides, however, said they expected the governor to act early in the week.

The vacancy on the seven-man commission occurred last Oct. 1 when Andrew Champion of Cass City died of a heart ailment. He was appointed by Williams along with two others last May, but illness prevented his attending any commission meetings.

A flood of candidacies to fill the vacancy descended on the executive office, but Williams, engrossed in other matters, seemed loathe to tackle the problem of finding a successor. He wanted to follow tradition by appointing someone from the northern Lower Peninsula, though members may be from anywhere in the state.

Those close to the governor made it clear that the field of candates has been definitely cut to three outstanding men.

They are Griffith, Harold Titus of Traverse City and Prof. Paul A. Herbert, head of the forestry department at Michigan State college.

Griffith is in his forties and raring for a crack at the job. He has been all over the state enlisting support and getting it.

Titus, on the other hand, has always been cold to returning to the commission. His long and distinguished career on the commission, dating back to 1927, was ended last May when Champion was appointed to the post.

Titus had publicly said then he was not a candidate for reappaintment to the six-year term. He is nearing 60 and does a great deal of traveling in connection with his outdoor writing. He has often said he wanted to spend what spare time he has with his family from now on.

If the governor were considering appointing Titus, it would be reasonable to assume that Titus would be sticking pretty close. As a matter of fact, he has been in Arizona for some weeks and was expected to stay there the rest of the winter.

Herbert, though eminently qualified, is wrong geographically. Harold Glassen, Lansing attorney, already represents the south-central part of the state on the commission. The governor's aides make no secret of the fact that they would like to see Herbert on the commission but that the governor feels he should make the appointment from the northern Lower Peninsula.

Griffith, though best described as non-partisan, has the backing of Democratic groups in his district.

He said recently he had never taken part in party politics but that he believes he would be "politically acceptable" to the governor.

Griffith is a personable man, possessed of a ready smile and a refreshing dose of humility. He does not claim to know all the answers to conservation problems.

At the same time, he gives the impression he will not be a rubberstamp on the commission. He can be expected to take a stand when he feels he has to.

Griffith lives in a comfortable home on the Au Sable river and is blessed with a great deal of leisure time. He is manufacturer's representative for a hosiery company but devotes much of his time to hunting, fishing and other outdoor pursuits.

He says he probably spends a total of nine months out of the year in the outdoors.

"Support The Church" Movement Starts

THE Escanaba Daily Press published on Saturday the first of a series of advertisements, stressing the importance of the church in community life.

These advertisements are intended to serve as a constant reminder to citizens of something they know but sometimes are neglectful of, the church—their church—the influence it has for the community good and personal happiness.

Local industrial and business interests are sponsoring the series as an important community service, to which the newspaper subscribes its own space regularly throughout the year to events which are centered in the church and religious life of the citizens.

Art work is designed especially for the series in an attractive presentation and is accompanied by an inspiring message to the public. The messages support the general theme of the church, or churches, in the building of character and good citizenship. On that basis alone support of the churches shows wisdom on the part of the public.

Cities without strong churches are unfortunate. The effectiveness of churches on the morals and the character of the population is demonstrated everywhere. Where churches are sound and aggressive and properly supported, the law and its servants have a powerful agency to help. It takes no churchman or clergyman to appricate keenly the important part that the church plays in the good citizenship of the community. All thoughtful persons will concede the value of the church as an institution for maintaining moral stability. Many, however, give little thought to this subject. To them the series of advertisements should be especially helpful and thought-provoking.

More Surplus Spuds Will Be Blue-Dyed

POTATOES were selling at 47 cents for a 15-pound sack in some stores last week when Secretary of Agriculture Brannan announced his plan to sell surplus spuds at one cent per hundred weight for farm fertilizer and livestock feed.

The government has about 40 million bushels of surplus potatoes from the 1949 crop, which were purchased with taxpayers' money under the support program at $1.25 per bushel. To prevent their being used for human consumption, the potatoes will be dyed blue. It is unlikely that farmers will want to buy any great amount of the potatoes so we probably shall see huge piles of them allowed to go to rot. A couple years ago we had such a situation near Manistique.

Under the support program, the government also has purchased many million eggs, which are now stored in powdered form in a huge cave in Kansas. All this was being done when many needy families were unable to obtain the benefits of this nourishing food because of high prices.

In the early pioneering days in America when everyone had to stand on his own feet, food was regarded as something almost sacred. To destroy food was considered to be sinful. And it is just as much a crime now, particularly in these times when there are many people with diet deficiencies.

Boy Scouts Observe Anniversary Week

BOY SCOUTS in Escanaba and other communities of the Red Buck district will join this week in the national observance of Boy Scout Week. One of the highlights of the local observance will be a Court of Honor program at the court house Tuesday night.

In the past four decades more than 6,500,000 boys and men in America have had the benefits of Scout training and leadership. Recognizing the worth of this character-building program, churches, service clubs, schools and various civic organizations have gladly sponsored the many Scout troops and Cub packs throughout the country.

The Boy Scout program has been helpful in many communities in reducing juvenile delinquency. Equally important is the fact that Scouting has developed youth into good citizens and active leaders in their communities.

The scouting program receives its financial aid from the funds raised annually in the Community Chest drdive It has accomplished much good, and is deserving of the public5s continuous support.

Fires On Farms Take Heavy Toll

THE Upper Peninsula, in common with other sections of the country, has experienced a heavy toll of human life and property in fires on farms during the recent cold wave.

Many farm fires are disastrous because the rural communities do not have adequate protection. It is estimated that the farm fire loss in 1949 approached 90 million dollars.

Rural communities like Bark River and Rock have provided more protection for their citizens by purchasing fire fighting equipment and organizing volunteer departments. But whether a community has a fire department or not, the important thing is to prevent fires.

Inspect and clean chimneys and stovepipes periodically.

Have spark arresters on chimneys.

Have screens in front of open fireplaces.

Put ashes in metal containers only.

Have hay thoroughly field-cured before it is stored.

Have farm buildings equipped with lightning rods, properly installed and grounded.

Do not smoke in or around the barn.

Do not use kerosene or gasoline to start fires.

Store gasoline 75 feet from other buildings.

Use spark arrester on the tractor when using it around the barn.

Do not allow papers or rubbish to accumulate in attics and in basements.

Keep matches out of the reach of children.

Have electric wiring installed and checked by a licensed electrician.

MUSIC IN THE AIR

Listen! Can you not hear them? Those bells of yesteryear made music in the cold, crisp air when steel sleigh runners squeaked on the hard packed paths. Can you not hear the rhythmic notes of the bells that swung from the collars of work horses as they plodded by on the way to town for a load of middlings and meal?

Good farmers were particular about the bells. Some preferred the long body straps of 30 Dexter chimes for the roaders that whisked cutters and pungs along the road. You could buy a strap for $2.44. Others preferred a set of shaft chimes, four to a set. Sets of harmonized Swiss Shaft Chimes, made of pure Swiss bell metal, made soft, sweet music. Occasionally an individualistic farmer wanted a Russian saddle chime on a fancy metal frame, or he used a neck strap on his favorite pacer or trotter.

The history of bells is long and romantic. No one knows who first discovered how to cast bells of a mixture of copper and tin. Probably the earliest bells were made of metal plates riveted together. In long ago eras, clanging bells sent men into battle and rang jubilantly when victory was achieved. Bells have sounded curfews; their wild notes have told and still tell of fires in country districts. Farm bells were once common; bells still ring on district schools in the country.

There was something appealing about the sweet-toned bells in winter before horseless carriages came into the picture. It may be, as some assert, that automobiles are here to stay; but the countryman believes the world's troubles began to multiply when horses began to lose ground. Along quiet country roads in winter, one could tell which neighbor was coming before the team came into view. As a farmer drive the big mares to the woodlot it was good to hear the notes of the bells; on the way to town the chimes on the harness filled the air with music. Gone now are the bells of winter—gone with pung and cutter and buffalo robes. But if you remember life half a century ago, perhaps you can still hear music in the air.—By Haydn Pearson.

TREND TOWARD PRICE REDUCTION
(Milwaukee Journal)

As an indication of trends, it is interesting to note that prices in the 1950 spring and summer catalog of Sears, Roebuck & Co. average 7% lower than those in the 1949 book.

The big mail order house, because it issues its catalogs so far ahead, must to a degree anticipate retail price changes. When Sears lists infants' and children's coats and dresses at reductions of from 18 to 27%, with women's wear at about the same percentage drop, it is fair to suppose that the clothing bills of Americans generally will be lower in 1950 than in 1949.

The fact that 64% of the nearly 100,000 items listed are lower and only 6% higher in price than in the 1949 catalog should be encouraging news to all Americans.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby

A TREATISE ON "AIN'T"

Will Rogers once observed during the depression that "a lot o' people who don't say 'ain't' ain't eatin'."

The Rogers epigram is often quoted by defenders of "ain't." But the epigram, being only a half-truth, proves nothing except the Rogers genius for witty, ingenious sayings.

Let us take a word's-eye view of "ain't." It may help us to decide whether to use it or avoid it.

"Ain't" is a corruption of an old contraction for "am not." It was originally written "a'n't" and pronounced: ahnt. But by some unexplained linguistic quirk "a'n't" lost one of its apostrophes and grew an excrescent and meaningless "i," becoming "ain't," which took on the spelling pronunciation "aint" (to rhyme with paint), and, in illiterate speech "haint."

Now another strange thing happened. Because the spelling ain't" and the pronunciation "aint" no longer suggested "am not," the word "ain't" became a monstrous word-of-all-work for "am not, is not, are not, has not" and "have not," as: "I ain't going; he ain't going; they ain't going; he ain't going; they ain't going."

So much for the history of "ain't." The important question now is this: Should one use "ain't," or avoid it? My own feeling about it is this: "Ain't" with the pronoun I is a not too serious stoplight in informal conversation. Nevertheless, since most authorities and nearly all teachers condemn "ain't" for "am not" as illiterate or dialectal, and since many people are violently opposed to it, my recommendation for what it may be worth, is: Don't use "ain't" with the pronoun I.

As for "ain't" for "are not, is not, has not, have not," I never hear it without being reminded of the story about the illiterate old Negro who had been told that his son had married:

"Look here, boy, is you married?"

"I ain't said I ain't."

"I ain't asked you is you ain't; I asked you is you is. Is you?"

Therefore, my final recommendation is: Don't use "ain't" at all.

Gov. Williams Worries G.O.P.

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

LANSING, Mich.—Of the Democrats swept into office in the surprise victory of November, 1948, one of the most interesting is the youthful-looking governor of Michigan, G. Mennen Williams. Williams is now getting set to run for re-election in the campaign this fall and his chances in this normally Republican state seem fairly good.

CHILDS

His critics say wryly that he has spent most of his time getting re-elected from the first day he took office. But one of the penalties of the ridiculous two-year term, which prevails in many states, is that the governor before he has scarcely warmed the chair of office must begin to think about his political future. In a state of the wealth and diversity of Michigan, with the vast new burdens imposed on government, this must put a premium on inefficiency and politicking.

One thing Williams undeniably has, and that is charm. He looks like a blend of Li'l Abner and Gary Cooper. And the friendliness and naturalness so widely advertised in his campaign are qautities he has distributed even more liberally during his first year in office.

TRAVELED 75,000 MILES

Williams estimates he has traveled perhaps 75,000 miles in the state in that year. He has constantly been broadening his base and particularly with the farmers whose contribution to the economy of the state has been overshadowed by the mass production of Michigan's world-famous auto industry.

One thing Williams speaks most proudly of is his drive last fall to save the apple growers of the state from economic disaster. As he tells the story, every possible outlet, including the federal government, was prevailed upon to take a part of the bumper apple crop.

While Williams' election might be discounted as a fluke in an abnormal year, Michigan Republicans are aware that today he must be taken more seriously. The GOP candindate considered most likely to defeat him is Harry F. Kelly who served two terms as governor from 1943 to '47. Another Republican candidate is Fred M. Alger, Jr., now secretary of state, member of an old and wealthy Michigan family.

Kelly is said to be interested in the senate seat now occupied by Michigan's most distinguished son, Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg.

Vandenberg's term expires in 1952, and he said when he ran in 1946 that he would under no circumstances be a candidate for re-election.

VANDENBERG MAY RETIRE

In recent months he has been convalescing from a major operation. The convalescence has not been as rapid as had been expected and there is speculation here that Vandenberg may decide to retire before his term has expired.

In some printed reports this speculation has gone a step further to suggest that Vandenberg wuold like to see his son, Arthur, Jr., named to his seat should he decide to retire. Arthur, Jr., is now in Brazil where he is directing the extensive development program of Nelson Rockefeller in South America.

Much of the speculation on Vandenberg and a "deal" for the senate sea tis based on the assumption that Michigan will go Republican again in the fall. Williams is the fourth Democrat to be elected governor since the start of the New Deal in 1933. The preceding three were one-term governors coming in an Roosevelt landslides.

OWES DEBT TO LABOR

Beyond doubt, Williams owes a debt of gratitude to organized labor for getting out the pro-Truman vote. But if the labor tag is too obvious, he is not likely to be re-elected in a year without a democratic president at the head of the ticket. There are just about as many small-town and farm voters as there are city voters.

It is not easy to broaden the base of support in a state which, to all intents and purposes, has had one-party politics for so long. The Democratic party was a collection of amiable politicians willing to take the leftovers from the Republican table. Williams has tangled with these easy-going regulars in an effort to put backbone into the party.

At the same time he has had to hold off the too eager embrace of his labor admirers in Detroit and the other motor cities. If he can strike a proper balance, hold the support he has and win over at least some of the farmers he may be governor again.

The Republican legislature is coming back in March and that means more combat. "Soapy" Williams is 39 years old. He says frankly and with his engaging grin that he likes the job of governor. If boundless energy and good will can bring it off, he may be re-elected. And in so doing he may start a real transformation of his party in this state.

Telling the Dictator W[illegible]e to Get Off

Good Evening
By Clint Dunathan

THE NEW NAMES—Well, reading the papers these days brings up some mighty touchy topics for conversation around the family dinner table.

It seems that some people don't know where to leave off when love enters their lives. There is the case of the Hollywood actress who loved in haste and divorced too leisurely.

Dunathan

In our town the other day they arrested some people for what the courts call lewd and lascivious cohabitation. Those are big words that may send teenagers to the dictionary. But they have become accustomed to its definition under another term.

Hollywood calls it romance.

NATIONAL DEBT—Young people may also have a difficult time trying to understand the national debt, which is now masquerading under several names.

President Truman and his administration snuggle up to the national debt and call it a piddling little thing hardly big enough to frighten a mouse, let alone a taxpayer.

The Republicans take a look at the national debt and keel over. While they are out, they murmur dire prophecies of national bankruptcy and a burden of debt on our grandchildren.

Meanwhile, the rank and file Americans, eager for economy in government, are torn between two thoughts:

1—If economy comes, Aunt Nell may lose her relief check; and 2—If government does not economize, Aunt Nell can go to Florida for the winter.

This mental confusion is exemplified in the statement of an Iowa farmer, who said:

"People in Washington should stop squandering so much money—but the farmers figure if they squander for everybody we might as well get our share."

He must be getting his share, for he and his wife just left by plane on a $2,300 twenty-two day vacation in Hawaii.

Well, a fair deal is better than no national debt at all.

But if the government ever balances the budget, a lot of people are going to have to go to work again.

• • •

SAVING MONEY— Over at Iron Mountain people are not completely satisfied with the way the government is staffing the new veterans hospital. They say the employes are a bunch of Dixiecrats, which is a terrible thing unless allied with the Republicans in Congress.

Anyway, the opening of the new hospital there will undoubtedly pay off in the long run.

Because Percy Jones hospital at Battle Creek is one of 18 military hospitals in the U. S. to be closed within the next five months.

Secretary of Defense Johnson says the saving will be $25 million a year.

That makes sense.

You close down 18 hospitals; have 44 under construction; plan 18 more—and save money.

The government is wonderful. Reminds me of the story of the man who consented to board three pigs for his neighbor. He fed the pigs for a year. Then his neighbor took the pigs back and handed him a bill for $300.

The man protested and pointed out that he had housed, fed, and otherwise cared for the animals.

"Sure," said his neighbor. "But who had the use of those pigs? You did!"

ABANDON SHIP— The big Navy battleship Missouri, recently relieved from a shoal whereon it had been stuck for 15 days, may go into "mothballs", as the Navy describes it.

The ship is unsuited as a training vessel, it is uneconomical, and too big, say the Navy brass hats. About the only conclusion is that the whole Big Mo problem is too big for the Navy. No one has yet satisfactorily explained how the navigators managed to get the ship on the shoal in the first place, but we know all the details on the 15-day battle to get her off.

LEAKY SECRETS —Hardly a day passes that some more U. S. top atomic secrets are not leaked to the Russians. How this is accomplished is understandable. There is no such thing as a secret. It will be the same way with the proposed new hydrogen bomb. The Russians will have that, too, within a few months or years.

Secrets among government officials are like secrets whispered across the card table—designed more to impress others than to withhold information.

Considering the number of atomic secret leaks in Washington, the town must be filled with drips of one kind and another. Of course, unless the leaks occurred, the drips would be unnoticed. Some people will attempt anything, including treason, to attract attention to themselves.

Excise Taxes

President Truman's recommendation that most wartime excise taxes be reduced was received with but modest approval by the Congres. Seemingly a majority of the members had hoped—as did I—that public opinion would have swayed the President to recommend repeal of these taxes.

It is felt by those who favor repeal that any loss in revenue could easily be offset by closing so-called loopholes in our existing tax structure without increasing taxes along the lines recommended by the President.

Our wartime imposed excise taxes, it must be remembered were not levied for revenue purposes but mainly to discourage and limit the use of materials needed for war production and to keep our people from buying luxuries and so-called luxuries. The excise taxes on tranportation as well as the increase in the automobile excise tax were levied to restrict wartime use of overloaded transportation systems and discourage the use of automobiles. The war has been over for nearly five years. To continue these taxes is not only unfair to business but indeed to the consumer and our taxpayers. Repeal of these taxes would give consumers added buying power thus increasing production. When production is increased it naturally follows that more revenue enters the Treasury and employment increases.

In my opinion tax increases at this time would dicourage business and may well begin a decline in national income. I believe that higher taxes are not favored by most members today but instead an excise tax relief bill is being talked about. Let us hope such will be forthcoming in this Session .

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Congressman Manny Celler of New York is keeping it secret so far, but hi smonopoly investigating committee has a report on the giant Du Pont combine and its control over American industry which every businessman should read.

PEARSON

Prepared by the federal trade commission, the super-secret document shows how du Pont, General Motors, U. S. Rubbber and the Libbey-Owens-Ford Glass company, have teamed up to form the most potent industrial combine this country has ever known.

This sprawling dynasty has become a government unto itself, bossed by the Delaware du Ponts, whose chemical company alone nets $120,000,000 annual profits after taxes. The du Pont family, the FTC report shows, controls and shares in the income of other companies with assets amounting to close to three billions and net profits (after taxes) of well over $300,000,000 a year.

MINORITY CONTROL

The du Pont investment in General Motors stock, worth more than $500,000,000 at current market prices, was purchased for only about $47,000,000. Yet between 1918 and 1947 the du Ponts received over $670,000,000 in dividends from this stock.

Of 44,000,000 outstanding shares of General Motors common stock, about 23 per cent—or 10,000,000 shares—are owned by the du Ponts. The remaining 34,000,000 shares are held by more than 400,000 individual stockholders. Yet du Pont controls G. M. policies and the selection of its directors, a number of whom have doubled as du Pont directors for years.

Meantime, the du Ponts have bought heavily into U. S. Rubber, until today they own, either directly or through personal holding-companies and trusts, about 300,000 shares—or 17 per cent—of the common stock.

As a result, the FTC report shows, du Pont has almost as great a voice over U. S. Rubber policies and the selection of its officers as it exercises over General Motors.

INTERLOCKING TRADE

The close-knit relationship between the four firms has been further strengthened by trade covenants which discriminated against outside companies competing for business with any of the four, FTC records show. For instance, since 1917, du Pont has purchased practically all its cars and trucks from General Motors. In return, G. M. purchases most of its fabrics, paints, varnishes and lacquers from du Pont.

The FTC report also reveals that all four companies—du Pont, G. M., U. S. Rubber and Libby-Owens-Ford—have first call on each other's products under secret trade covenants.

GOVERNMENT IN BUSINESS?

The staid old National Republican club of New York was thrown into an uproar recently over a resolution on party policy.

At the request of GOP National Chairman Guy Gabrielson, the members of the silk-stocking club assembled to write a resolution offered by Cornelius Wickersham, Jr. It read:

"Resolved, that the United States government should not in any way compete with private industry."

This greeted with enthusiasm and applause—until Henry Van Veen, a comparatively young man in this council of elders, bounced up and asked:

"Does that mean the government must get out of housing, and out of TVA? Does that mean rural electrification must be abandoned?"

There was an answering shout of "yes," followed by a storm of debate.

But when the votes were counted Wickersham's resolution against government in business was defeated.

THE LAST PRAYER

It was a cold and dreary day. An elderly, white-haired man in clerical garb walked slowly up the stone steps on the house side of the capitol.

Within the door, he stopped and looked longingly before him. In a low, impassioned voice, he said, "This is the last time. This is the last time."

It was the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, arriving for his final day as chaplain of the house of representatives.

Eighty-seven years old, he had been coming up to congress to give the opening prayer almost every day for 29 years. Now he seemed forlorn and lonely.

Standing nearby a stranger tried to cheer him up:

"Why, doctor," he said, "this is not the last time. It's just the last time you have to come."

The old man brightened. "Thank you, son. I know it won't be the last time."

Straightening his shoulders, Rev. Montgomery walked resolutely to the elevator and gave his last prayer as chaplain of the house.

NEWSMAN TURNS TABLES

Reporter Bob Byrnes of the Hartford, Conn., Courant, was attending a recent press conference with Atomic Energy Commissioner Sumner Pike. On question after question, Pike had refused comment. Finally he said a few words on atomic reactors, and wound up asking Byrnes:

"That's what you would do, wouldn't you?"

"I am sorry, commissioner," Byrnes shot back, paraphrasing Pike, "but I can't answer that question."

It does no good to talk about your cold, but a lot if you keep it to yourself.

As you can see in the picture, some very unique costumes have been rented for this production number. It will be staged around a specially designed street light and rubbish can, made by the properties committee under direction of Robert Plave, talented production designer.

How Will Nation Duck Depression?

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—How can the nation stave off or cushion another depression? How guard against the wholesale loss of jobs when business slackens?

Some think labor can do it, by forcing companies to guarantee an annual wage, rather than to hire men from day to day as new orders wax or wane.

Some think government can do it, by managing the supply of money and credit so that the country never actually deflates—unless the bubble bursts.

And some think industry can do it, by setting up reserves in the fat years to keep plants running in the lean years, thus keeping many on the payroll who otherwise would go on relief.

Money Juggling Works

Gen Robert E. Wood, chairman of Sears, Roebuck and Co. of Chicago, thinks the United States will be able for a number of years to stave off the threat of recessions or depressions by juggling the money supply. He is no advocate of such a policy, but he thinks that is what we are in for. The mail-order house chief tells the annual dinner meeting of the association of cotton textile merchants of New York that:

"The masses in every country will not take deflation. Deflation means the elimination of the party in power. An increase in the money supply acts to postpone or stop deflation, recessions and depressions. The answer is fairly obvious that the party in power will always increase the money supply now that there is no gold standard in existence to act as automatic bar to any increase in the money supply."

However opposed the masses may be to deflation, some say there are other ways than government money-juggling to help iron out the extreme peaks and valeys of the business graph.

The part that industry itself could play in fighting depressions is stressed by Joseph L. Snider, professor of business economics in the Harvard business school, in the forthcoming isue of "the controller", official publication of the controllers institute of America.

Businessmen retain extra funds for expansion, Snider says, but "fail to establish funds which will insure continuance at all times of a healthy level of operations." In the past, business reaction to the threat of depression, he notes, was to lower wages, reduce the number of employes, cut overhead, put off upkeep, pare stocks and even let down on sales effort. But he thinks all this is self defeating in the long run—"one company's expense is another company's or individual's income." And he suggests that stabilization reserves would stop this sort of cost cutting from snowballing into a depression.

Businessmen might raise an eyebrow at this. They might ask: Why should a steel mill go on making steel if no one wants to buy steel? Should the product just be stacked up on the ground?

But Snider wonders if the employment stabilization reserves might not work so that consumers would go on ordering steel.

In good times, he says, the building up of these reserves would curb over-optimism and unwise expansion.

In times of declining sales, the reserves could be used for cost-saving investments, capital investment at low cost, promotional efforts.

Snider puts the idea forth tentatively. He says Harvard is making a study of the possibility that such funds would insure industry against depression, and he asks corporation controllers to aid with case histories and "realism and practicality."

Probate Judge Files Charge Of Slander

MENOMINEE, Mich.,—(AP)—Probate Judge Katherine Stiles Laughton Friday filed a $5,000 suit against Michael J. Anuta, Menominee attorney, charging slander, libel and defamation of character.

Judge Laughton based her charges on three court documents. One seeks her disqualification in an estate case, another would enjoin her from alleged practice of law, and the third would free a woman committed to an insane institution.

The Michigan Bar association sought the injunction on grounds that Judge Laughton illegally practices law in probate court matters.

Anuta has a part in all the proceedings against the judge.

Anuta has 20 days in which to answer the judge. The case will be tried in May.

City Cage League Enters Round Two Tuesday Evening

In the double-elimination tournament some of the best basketball in city tournament has been played the past week. Every game has been close and the teams, that finished in the lower bracket during regular season play, have been unsetting the plans of the league leaders. Overtime and one point margins have been the rule rather than the exception.

Thursday night the VFW measured the red hot Red Devils in an extremely close game in the initial game; in the second game the surprising National Guard pushed the strong American Legion all the way. Mutzie Schneider of the former was high point man for the evening. Tuesday evening the rejuvenated Blaney Cubs, showing a complete reversal of form, went right down to the tape to take the Inland team. In the final game of the evening the surprisingly improved Paper Mill quintet forced the Cooks Bombers into an overtime before succumbing by a single point.

Games for this week pit Inland against the Paper Mill in Tuesday night's first game and Cooks versus the Blaney Cubs in the second. Thursday night the Red Devils tangle with the National Guard in the initial canto and the undefeated American Legion take on the once-beaten VFW in the nightcap. Each night the games begin at 7 p. m. at the old gym; game nights are Tuesdays and Thursdays.

REA Project Strikes Snag

Unable To Obtain Big Bay Easements

An unexpected snag has been struck by the Rural Electric Administration in its attempt to supply electric power to Big Bay.

It was reported today that the REA unit—the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric association—which plans to serve that Powell township community, has been unable to obtain easements over a portion of the right-of-way it will use for power lines from Marquette to Big Bay.

Otherwise, an official of Powell township said, the REA is ready to initiate its program in the spring. Government purchase of power from the city of Marquette has been approved and all residents of Big Bay — who must be shareholders in REA to obtain current — have been notified of the association's intent to start service.

What procedure would be followed if right-of-way easements cannot be obtained was not explained.

Under REA regulations, power will be purchased by the Alger-Delta Cooperative Electric association and resold to Big Bay residential and commercial users. The Marquette city commission approved a contract for the purchase of power by the association at its regular meeting Monday, Jan. 16.

At present, the Ford Motor Co. generator used in Big Bay when that concern operated the mill there is still in use to supply power for the school and a few homes. However, about 80 per cent of the homes are without electricity and it is not known how long the Ford generator will continue in operation.

Director Of Pardons And Paroles Chosen; Position Pays $9000

LANSING —(AP)— Corrections Commissioner Earnest C. Brooks Friday announced the filling of a non-civil service job he has insisted for months did not need filling.

He announced the appointment of Herbert W. Straley, 44, of Allen Park as the $9,000 a year director of the Division of Pardons, Paroles and Probation.

The job is one of two political appointments within the corrections department, both of which have been vacant for some time. The job Straley will fill was vacated last summer with the resignation of Ralph Hall Ferris. The position of director of Prisons and Industries, which pays the same salary, has been vacant nearly two years.

Brooks, who has been commissioner since Jan. 1, 1949, has resisted political pressure to fill the jobs.

Fail To Act On Fish Resolution

Sports Club Directors Table Matter

Directors of the Minnewasca Sportsmen's club met late Friday afternoon to discuss a resolution regarding commercial fishing legislation which had been presented for consideration by the Delta County Tourist council but for a second time no action was taken on the matter.

The resolution asks certain restrictions on trap net fishing or the use of trap nets and also would establish several net free trolling areas for sport fishermen in Little and Big Bays de Noquet during the walleyed pike season.

Joe Casimir of Rapid River was named general chairman of the committee which will put on the annual rabbit feed in the near future at the Rapid River Legion hall.

One of the big tasks will be to find sufficient rabbits for the meal, the heavy snow of late having made rabbit hunting extremely difficult.

It has been suggested that perhaps some sportsmen have rabbits killed previously frozen and put away. Anyone having rabbits they would like to contribute to the dinner may phone Mr. Casimir or Joe VanArnam at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Escanaba Invades Gladstone Tuesday

GLADSTONE—The Gladstone Braves are in for a busy and probably strenuous week, entertaining Escanaba here Tuesday evening and traveling to Gwinn on Friday night.

The Braves had little trouble in routing the Eskymos, 62-33, early in January and local fans can see no reason why the Braves shouldn't make it a double win in the home and home series.

In an effort to stem rising over confidence, Coach Eldon Keil has pointed out to his charges that the Eskymos made it a ball game for the first half, the score being 19-16, and it is possible they may turn in a much better game in the second meeting.

Coach Keil is sticking to his old standbyes: namely Capt. Billy Rajala and Larry LaPlant, forwards; Phil Creten, center; Jim Schram and Tich Swenson guards.

Dick Stade, Jim LaLonde, John Syverson, Les Young and Joe Sutter also probably will see action during the evening.

Hawks, Indians Lose Weekend UPHL Battles

Delta county representatives in the Upper Peninsula Hockey league took it on the chin yesterday, the Escanaba Hawks bowing to the Stambaugh Wings, 7-0 and the Gladstone Indians losing to the South Marquette Athletic club 12-3. Both Escanaba and Gladstone were playing away from home.

Playing on soft ice—a condition which seems to lend itself to roughhouse tactics—the Hawks trailed Stambaugh 2-0 in the first period, 4-0 in the second and the Wings added three in the third. The Wings used three lines and four defensemen against two lines and three defensemen for the Hawks, who made the trip to Stambaugh considerably shorthanded.

With Earl DeHate, self-styled league bad man, and his aides-de-camp working at peak efficiency on soft ice, the game was one of the roughest of the season and threatened to develop into a free-for-all more than once.

Gladstone's Indians fought hard to keep pace with the SMACs, but the speedy Marquette sextet came through with a bangup game on its new Palestra artificial ice and held the upper hand. No report of the individual scoring in either game was received.

St. Louis Bowling Teacher Captures Petersen Classic

CHICAGO,—(AP)—A 24-year-old St. Louis bowling teacher took time off from classes to win the $5,000 first prize in the nation's richest meet—the Petersen Classic.

Tom Hennessey stepped to the line in the 18 day firing Jan. 29 and rattled off an eight game 1,651. That score withstood efforts of 1,792 bowlers from all parts of the country.

Many of the best were crammed into the windup last night. But they got the jitters and failed even to crack through the first 10.

Three Detroit stars made their bids—Johnny Crimmins with 1,567, Emil Wansa, a former Petersen winner, with 1,433, and Dale Ward with 1,450. Veteran Andy Varipapa, of Hempsted, N. Y., could do no better than 1,486 and Harold Asplund of Denver, always a top-flight Petersen performer, posted only 1,429.

Following Hennessey were John Hanis, Kansas City, Kas., with 1,625 for second place and $2,500; Stan Slomenski, Newark, N. J., with 1,609 for third and $1,500; and Carl Lundquist of Tulsa with 1,603 for fourth and $1,200.

The $3,000 top award in the concurrent Dom de Vito meet, which attracted 1,152 bowlers, went to Harry Lippe, a 15-year veteran of Chicago's classic league.

Lippe uncorked a sensational 1,721 last Friday. It easily withstood the closing rush.

Miss Marchetti New Champion At Cheboygan

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. — (AP) — An old champion and a new one are wearing crowns won in the Northern Michigan speed skating tournament, held here over the weekend.

Mario Trafeli of Detroit retook the senior men's title he won last year, and Barbara Marchetti of Wyandotte won the senior women's title, vacated by Florence Wrona Carter of Saginaw.

Two state records for cradle division entries were cracked by Terry Mc Dermott of Bay City. The 8-year-old did the 100-yard dash in 13.2 second, breaking the old record of 13.6.

He also smashed his own record of 28-6 seconds in the 220-yard dash, scampering the distance this year in 27.3 seconds.

There were ties in two divisions. Bob Feskorn and Denny O'Connor of Detroit had 100 points each in the intermediate division, and Jill Nicholson of Detroit and Mary Hilborn of Cheboygan split for the girls midget crown.

In a skate-off Miss Nicholson won sole right to the title. No skate-off was held in the boys' intermediate class, because the O'Connor boy was ill.

Nancy Renshaw of Saginaw had no competition in the girls cradle event. She was awarded that title after finishing second in the boys' cradle race.

In taking the senior men's title, Trafeli scored firsts in the 440-yard dash, the one-mile and the two mile races. Miss Marchetti had firsts in all four events which she entered.

St. Joe Leads, 43-42, Going Into 4th Period But Marquette Redmen Rally To Win By 57-46

Escanaba St. Joseph's gave the Marquette Graveraets, an Upper Peninsula Class B powerhouse, a scare at Bonifas gym here Saturday night—a big scare—but the visiting Redmen jumped into the lead early in the fourth quarter, banged in a couple of quick baskets and stalled effectively after the official timeout period to win by 57-46.

Up to that point, it was strictly anyone's ball game. St. Joe trailed by only 14-17 at the quarter and by 26-30 at halftime. The Trojans forged into the lead within three minutes after the start of the third quarter and led the rest of the way, going into the fourth period with a 43-42 lead. They scored 17 points to Marquette's 12 in the last period.

And then things began to happen—against St. Joe. A center tip-off play worked to perfection with one exception, the payoff pass under the basket. That miscued. Later a couple of other misdirected passes went astray and Marquette made them both pay off to take the lead and jump into the driver's seat.

Off To The Races

It was 50-43 Marquette at the official timeout period and the old stall (and the new rule) in the last three minutes of play worked to perfection. Marquette controlled the ball. St. Joe came out and fouled. Marquette got the shot and the ball out of bounds and it was the same old story over again.

During the last three minutes, Marquette swelled that 50-43 edge to a 57-46 finale.

Marquette used a pressing man-to-man defense, and St. Joseph's used a zone effectively until late in the game. Marquette made 50 per cent of its field goal attempts the first half. St. Joe's percentage for the game was a creditable 35 per cent.

To date, Marquette has lost only to Ishpeming and Negaunee and is generally rated the team to beat for the U. P. Class B championship. It has scoring power in big Steve Petros, a smooth floorman as well, in Red Johnson, Chuck Nystrom and Bill Redman. The latter, a guard, is a threat on near mid-court set shots.

Miron Is Star

But the top scorer for the night was big Jack Miron, who played his best game of the year. He was in the thick of it on nearly every play under both baskets, controlling the rebound and getting his share of shots. He dipped in eight buckets and three of four free throws for 19 points.

Petros, Graveraet's all-around smoothie, hit 16 counters for second scoring honors.

In the preliminary, St. Joe bowed to the Marquette Bees, 37-33.

Ronzani, Iron Mountain New Coach Of Packers

GREEN BAY, Wis.—(AP)—It's official—Gene Ronzani is the new head coach of the Green Bay Packers.

Ronzani, former Marquette university and Chicago Bears backfield star, was named today to succeed Earl L. (Curly) Lambeau as top man of the National-American Football League club. Ronzani is a native of Iron Mountain, Mich.

RONZANI

Announcement of the signing, at an undisclosed salary, was made by E. R. Fischer, club president, just five days after Lambeau resigned to become vice-president and head coach of the Chicago Cardinals.

Ronzani has had no previous experience as a major league head coach. Lambeau, with his resignation, ended 31 years at the Packer helm.

The Packer boss has been in the Bears' organization since his graduation from Marquette, where he earned nine varsity letters in football, basketball and track, in 1933, the last three seasons as quarterback coach.

A halfback in college and in his first years with the Bears, Ronzani played in the same backfield with Bronko Nagurski, Beattie Feathers and Carl Brumbaugh. He was shifted to quarterback in 1937 and two years later coached the Bears' Newark farm team to a league title. In 1943 he returned to the Bears as an active player and quarterbacked the club during Sig Luckman's naval service.

In 1946, Ronzani was sent to another Bear farm at Akron, O., as head coach, but returned the following year to become quarterback coach of the parent team.

The search for a successor to Lambeau was much shorter than had been expected. President Fischer, in Florida at the time the veteran Belgian announced his departure, hurried home. He arrived Friday night and called an executive committee meeting which continued over most of the weekend. Last night Ronzani's selection was made known officially. Confirmation by Fischer was made at a press conference this noon.

There was no word on the future status of Lambeau's staff—Tom Stidham, Bob Snyder and Charley Brock. Each has one year to go on his current contract. There was no announcement, either, on a successor to George Strickler, who resigned Saturday as publicity director.

Barr Captures Annual School Skating Meet

By the score of 126 to 98, Barr dethroned Jefferson in the eleventh annual Escanaba grade school speed skating meet sponsored by the city recreation department at Royce park Saturday afternoon.

The meet was one of the most successful ever held. There were 230 entries—the biggest in 11 years—and considerably more interest was generated among the competing teams. In an effort to repeat as champions, Jefferson school skaters had pre-meet training sessions, and in the fifth and sixth grade division, there were more girls than boys competing.

Other schools in Escanaba scored as follows: Washington 68, Franklin 23, St. Joseph's 12 and Webster nine.

Outstanding third and fourth grade contestants were Glen Olson, Jefferson; Virginia Holmes, of Barr, and Janet Olson, Jefferson student. Among the fifth and sixth graders, outstanding skaters were Bill Sommers, Washington; Robert Bero, Barr; Judy Groos, Franklin, and Barbara Neumeier, Barr.

Jefferson won the third and fourth grade boys' relay, a feature event.

Bjornstad Is New Ski Jumping Hero

Lake Placid, N. Y.—(AP)—The sport of ski jumping, which enjoys a limited popularity among competitors, had a brand new star today.

He is Hans Bjornstad, a 21-year-old Norwegian youngster who was mentioned only as an afterthought by the experts who picked Arnfinn Bergmann or Olympic Champion Petter Hugsted or even Christian Mohn to win the world championship jump held here yesterday.

Bjornstad outshone them all yesterday, achieving both the best form and the best distance. It's an exceedingly rare combination for one skiier to excel in both.

He jumped 224 and 223 feet in his two trials on the intervales Olympic hill and showed near perfect form.

Bjornstad's total—on form and distance—of 220.4 points gave him a six-point margin over another rank outsider, Thure Lindgren of Sweden.

Bergmann and Mohn placed third and fourth with point totals of 213.5 and 212.4,, respectively.

Nahma Hickory Stix Beat Cloverland In Last 17 Seconds

NAHMA—The Nahma Hickory Sticks, a group of college stars of a decade or more ago, really pulled one out of the fire here yesterday.

Trailing all the way, they got the lead in the last 17 seconds of play and beat Escanaba Cloverland college, 38-37. It was their fifth win in a row.

Score by periods:

Nahma	6	12	10	10—38
Cloverland	16	5	11	5—37

The Nahma five were so jubilant about their win—the hard way—that they announced after the game they would take on a doubleheader at home next Sunday afternoon—Garden at 2:30 and Hewitt's Grocery of Manistique at 3:30

HARTFORD, Conn.—(AP)— The Hartford Courant, a morning newspaper, reported today that Arthur Valpey has been selected head football coach for the University of Connecticut. Wings Tie Rangers 5-5; It's A Habit

DETROIT—(AP) — The Detroit Red Wings roared back last night to gain a 5-5 tie with the New York Rangers, but saw their winless streak advance to eight games.

The Detroiters, who hold first place in the National Hockey league by a ten point margin, have not won a game since they defeated the Chicago Blackhawks, 5-3, on Jan. 21.

Their record since that time includes six ties and two defeats. The Wings now wince at the phrase "fit to be tied."

For the latter half of the Sunday game, though, the Wings once more showed the stuff that enabled them to outdistance all their rivals in early season play. But they had to.

The New Yorkers grabbed a 3-1 lead in the first period, after Detroit's Gordie Howe had opened the scoring with a 15-foot screen shot set up by Jeff Carveth.

In A Doze

After that, the Wings appeared to doze, and the Rangers shoved in five goals in 13½ minutes.

While the Wings were a man short on penalties, the New Yorkers whacked in two goals. Pennti Lund scored the first at 11:27, and repeated at 12:37.

Alex Kaleta made the score 3-1 at the end of the first session with a short poke that concluded a scramble in front of the Detroit net.

After the intermission, the Rangers again got rolling. Don Raleigh alertly smacked in a passout with only 11 seconds gone. Pat Egan hit in another tally at 5:03 to make it a 5-1 ball game. The Wings took to the defense.

That Was It

Midway in the period, though, Steve Black fired through a smoker to retain the Detroiters' self-respect. The period ended with Detroit on the short end, 5-2.

Then, in the finale, a second-string Detroit line caught fire, and continually buzzed the New York net as the Blue Shirts wilted.

Jimmy Peters got the first of the three Detroit scores in that stanza at 3:04, with assists from Marty Pavelich and Jim McFadden. Joe Carveth smacked in a 15-footer at 7:07, and Jerry Couture sank his own rebound at 11:55.

And try as they might, that was all the Detroiters could get.

Sweden And Norway Tops In World Ski

RUMFORD, Me. — (AP) — They award only individual titles in the world ski championships but if they did determine a team title it would be exactly as you figured—Norway and Sweden are far out in front.

With four of the five events in the Nordic phase of the games completed, Norway is leading with 40½ points. Sweden is second with 34, followed by Finland with 22.

The United States is fourth with 3½, France fifth with 3 and Canada sixth with one. Denmark, Switzerland, Yugoslavia and Austria haven't registered a point.

The tabulation includes the jump, in which four Norwegians broke into the scoring at Lake Placid, N. Y., and the 40-kilometer (25-mile) relay which Sweden won from Finland here. Both events were decided yesterday.

Only race remaining on the program is the 50-kilometer (31-mile) marathon today in which Sweden's Nils Karlsson, the 1948 Olympic champion, is a contestant.

Thirty-three skiers are scheduled to start in the 50-kilometer, at 10 a. m. (EST) they will travel twice over an improved 25-kilometer course. Going over a path twice violates the Federation Internationale de Ski rules, but that has been waived because of lack of snow at Lake Placid, only 50-kilometer layout in the East.

The game of the week, however, is on tomorrow's night's card and it features Cloverland College and the VFW in the rubber contest of their three-game series. The Vets won the first one by five points and the College emerged victorious in their second meeting by nine points. Second place in the fast loop will also be at stake and tomorrow night's winner will find itself in the runnerup spot, four games behind the front-running Shamrocks.

Basketball fans this week will have an opportunity to see a new two-minute rule in effect instead of the standard three-minute regulations which have been in operation during the first half of the season. Here is how it works: During the final two minutes of play a player in possession of the ball who has been fouled will receive two free throws regardless of the way he was fouled. He must take both free throws but if he misses the second one the ball will be in play. If he makes the second one, the opposing team gets the ball out of bounds. An offensive foul by a player in possession of the ball entitles the fouled player to one free throw.

The purpose of the new rule is to speed up the action in the waning minutes of the game and to present a more normal game situation regardless of the score. Some observers feel that the end of the game should be treated the same as the first 29 minutes. One of the reasons for awarding two free throws for any type of rule violation by a defensive player is to cut down on the number of mid-court fouls, especially where a member of the trailing team tries to steal the ball and fouls his opponent in the attempt. Another reason is to eliminate, as much as possible, intentional fouls made in order to get possession of the ball.

It will be interesting to get the reaction of the fans and players specially after a close game. Although the rule is new in this area it is being used in the Big Ten conference and has been favorably received.

Nine Colleges Fairly Sure Of Cage Bids

NEW YORK—(AP)—If they don't fall apart in the next few weeks, nine college basketball teams are set for bids to National basketball tournaments.

The nine which have good enough records today to merit invitations to either the NCAA or National invitation tournaments are:

Holy Cross (17-0), only major unbeaten five; Ohio State (13-3), Western Conference leader;; Bradley (18-3), Missouri Valley co-leader; Arizona (17-2), border conference highrider; Western Kentucky (16-4), North Carolina State (17-3, Southern Conference boss; Long Island U. (15-2); CCNY (12-2) and St. John's (18-2).

Of the finalists in the two major tournaments last year, not one has yet cinched a bid for the March affairs.

Erratic Kentucky (16-4), which beat Oklahoma A && M for the NCAA crown, has three major southern competitors in North Carolina State, Western Kentucky and Louisville. The last named quintet dropped Duquesne from the unbeaten ranks Saturday night.

A & M (11-6) doesn't expect expect anything this year.

San Francisco (12-5) defeated Loyola of Chicago in the nit final here last March and may get a bid as defending champion. Loyola (9-11), like the Aggies, also isn't going anywhere.

What about Hamilng (20-1), last year's NAIB winner at Kansas City? Joe Hutton's boys proved they're the kingpins of the small schools and may want to crack at the big ones in the NIT this time.

Several other teams still are in the running for the 20 invitations open in the two major tournaments. Eight quintets will compete in the NCAA and 12 in the NIT.

U. P. Golden Gloversers Bring Home 30-Inch Trophy

By KEN GUNDERMAN

Upper Peninsula amateur boxers, representing the Escanaba district in the Wisconsin Golden Gloves tournament at Milwaukee, returned to their homes Saturday, proudly displaying the 30-inch trophy they received for winning the novice team championship at the Milwaukee Auditorium Friday night. It was the third successive year Escanaba district boxers captured the novice team title. Last year U. P. boxers won both novice and open championships

Upper Michigan novice boxers won six of their 12 bouts in the semi-finals and final rounds to capture the novice team championship, nosing out Marshfield, Wisconsin boxers. Marshfield won the open division team championship, however.

Escanaba district boxers brought back two individual championships and two runners-up awards. Truman Van Luven, of Sault Ste. Marie, won the 118 pound title and Donald Hase, Munising wood chopper, copped the heavyweight title. Harry Sundman, of Escanaba, was runner-up in the 112 pound class and Frank Massey, of Sault Ste. Marie, was runner-up in the 135 pound class.

Sundman, the Escanaba flyweight who decisioned the sharpshooting Urban league colored lad, Joe Clark, Wednesday night, was a victim of over-anxiousness in the finals Friday night. Sundman lost to James Fink of Marshfield on a very close decision.

The two boys went into the third and final round all even, Fink having won the opening round and Sundman the second by identical margins. The two flyweights thrilled the capacity crowd of 7,000 fans with a spirited contest. Fink's counter-punching in the final round won the nod from the judges when Sundman's left hooks missed their target.

For bristling action, the lightweight novice title bout between Frank Massey of the Soo, representing Escanaba, and Jerry Jonas, of the Milwaukee Athletic club, was the outstanding bout of the Friday night championships. Massey, a southpaw, stood up to the hard slugging Jonas all the way, traded punch for punch in a bout that never lacked for excitement. Jonas won the unanimous decision but when the boys left the ring the huge ovation from the 7,000 fans was for the game youngster from Sault Ste. Marie. For his showing in that bout, Massey won the award for the outstanding out of town boxer in the novice division. Jonas won the trophy for the outstanding novice boxer.

Donald Hase, Munising heavyweight, scored a clean decision over Benjamin O'Neill, colored boxer of Raatz' Sportsmen's gym, in the heavyweight finals. Although lacking the timing that punched out a TKO victory over John Dirk, of the Milwaukee Urban league in a semifinal bout Wednesday, Hase rocked O'Neill several times and carried the unanimous decision. Hase had some difficulty catching O'Neill, who was not interested in trading punches with the Munising woodchopper.

Truman Van Luven of the Soo won the 118 pound title by defeault, due to the disqualification of his scheduled opponent, Willie Holloman, who was entered under an assumed name and while under suspension with the Wisconsin AAU.

Milwaukee fans made numerous inquiries about the Canadian Soo boys, Joe Brunette and Bob Bumbacco, who scored big hits at Milwaukee a year ago. The Canadian boys were not entered in the tournament this year because of an AAU ban on Ontario boxers competing in the United States.

Navy Practices Enemy U-Boat Hunt In Pacific

By TOM LAMBERT

TOKYO—(AP)—The U. S. Navy will conduct "hunter-killer" anti-submarine exercises this year in the Pacific, where Russia's submarine program is expanding.

The announcement came after the visiting U. S. joint chiefs of staff had more Pacific strategy conferences with General MacArthur and his top aides.

Adm. Forrest P. Sherman, chief of naval operations, said the escort aircraft carrier Sicily and six destroyers were being sent to the Pacific to conduct the exercises.

Reports from Washington say the 12,000-ton Sicily will move to the Pacific in mid-April. The destroyers will be transferred before September.

Sherman told newsmen the carrier and its destroyer escort would work on the "hunter-killer" tactics which proved so effective against submarines in the last war.

Sherman declared U. S. Naval Forces in the Western Pacific will be kept at maximum strength because of Russia's expanding submarine program. He estimated Russia had one-fourth of its 270 to 280 submarines in the Pacific.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs, said his group would visit Southern Japan to talk with other commanders "to pick up some more information." They flew to Tokyo today.

Before leaving, Bradley, Sherman, Air Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg and Army Gen. J. Lawton Collins had a series of individual cleanup conferences on specific military problems with MacArthur and his key commanders.

Holed-Up Gunman, 23, Held For Kidnapings By Colorado Police

GOLDEN, Colo.—(AP)—A young gunman who had "holed up" for the winter by stocking a mountain cabin with machineguns, food, check writing equipment and a mink coat, was held today for two kidnapings and three auto thiefts.

He identified himself as Andrew Cecil McCauley, 23, and boasted to Sheriff Carl Enlow that he is wanted in 12 states for $250,000 worth of bad checks.

Arrested with McCauley after a five-hour chase over icy mountain roads was pistol-toting Barbara Jean Carroll, 28, of Houston, Tex.

Enlow said McCauley was questioned about the million-dollar Brinks Agency holdup in Boston, but apparently had no connection with it. FBI agents also questioned McCauley.

Enlow said he found in McCauley's cabin: two rifles, a pistol two German army machine pistols, 20 cases of food, a mink coat, hundreds of blank checks from all parts of the country, 18 telephone directories, a check-writing machine, and a case of whiskey.

Silver Shirt Leader Paroled From Prison After 8-Year Hitch

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The U. S. parole board today granted parole to William Dudley Pelley, founder and one-time leader of the Silver Shirts of America, who was convicted of sedition during World War II.

The 60-year-old Pelley has been in the federal penitentiary at Terre Haute, Ind., since late in 1942, serving a 15-year sentence imposed by the federal district court at Indianapolis.

He will be freed Feb. 14, the board said.

His conviction on 11 counts of criminal sedition was based upon his publications put out by the Fellowship Press Inc., at Noblesville, Ind.

The government charged that statements in his magazine, called The Galilean, were made to bring about "insubordination, disloyalty, mutiny and refusal of duty (in the U. S. military forces) and also to obstruct recruiting."

High Apple Prices Unlikely This Year

Among the major fruits, it said in a monthly report on fruit prices, only apples are in much larger supply than last winter.

Planks Written Up In GOP Platform

It has stifled debate, he said, and discouraged "independent" thinking by Congress members.

It has given us one course of action in Europe and the opposite one in Asia," declared Schroeder.

Policy drafting Republicans said Vandenberg was active in writing the foreign portion of their law platform.

They said this declaration reaffirms GOP faith in the United Nations and pledges Republican support for a two party international policy which the GOP can approve in advance.

Gabrielson said the 2,000 word policy statement makes it clear that the GOP has something to offer the people besides criticism of the Truman administration's actions. He would not go into details.

Mercy Bullets Fail To Kill Wife; Husband Suicide At Bedside

RICHMOND, Va.—(AP)— Mrs. Rose Appich Stoler, 60, remained in critical condition today with two bullet wounds in her chestt inflicted in a "mercy killing" attempt by her husband, who police said committed suicide after shooting his wife.

Police said Charles S. Stoler, 60-year-old Richmond jeweler, shot himself through the head after he thought he had killed his wife, a bedridden invalid since she suffered a stroke in June, 1948.

Her husband came to her bedside yesterday in her first-floor bedroom, Mrs. Stoler told police, and announced he was going to "put you out of your troubles." He carried a small pistol, she said.

"I begged with him not to shoot me but he said I had suffered enough," she told officers. "He put the gun by my heart and shot me twice."

Police said Stoler then shot himself, dying immediately at his wife's bedside.

After the shooting, Mrs. Stoler was able to dial the telephone operator and call for help.

Strikers At Chrysler Frame New Demands

DETROIT—(AP)—Chrysler Corp. may face new contract demands from striking CIO United Auto Worker members sometime this week.

A preliminary draft of demands was drawn up here Sunday at a meeting of the union's negotiating committee and its Chrysler department staff.

The finishing touches will be put at a Wednesday meeting of 125 union representatives from all 5 Chrysler plants. Such matters as layoffs, merit pay, grievance procedures and union security will be included.

Federal and state negotiators, meanwhile, indicated that they hope to bring the two parties together for another across the table discussion sometime this week.

White House Uses Taft-Hartley Act In Coal Walkout

tinue, will imperil the national health and safety."

Penalties Possible

Once the board reports, the president can ask the attorney general to go to a federal court and seek a 80-day injunction against a further strike.

If the miners should not obey it, the government might seek penalties for contempt of court.

In 1946 a court slapped the miners with a $700,000 fine for contempt and Lewis with a $10,000 one personally, in 1948, in another contempt case, those fines were doubled — $1,400,000 on the union and $20,000,000 on Lewis.

Lewis' suggestion that the miners might not pay any attention to a "stop st ike" order came on Saturday when he turned down Mr. Truman's proposal for a 70-day strike truce while a fact-finding board, appointed outside the Taft-Hartley law, looked into the dispute that has plagued coal production for eight months.

Lewis said the miners did not want "three strangers"—meaning the board Mr. Truman proposed to appoint—settling their economic problems.

The UMW chief's attitude left the president little choice except to turn to the labor-hated Taft-Hartley Act which his administration is pledged to repeal.

No Seizure Expected

Mr. Truman talked the situation over with Democratic Congressional leaders shortly before invoking the T-H law.

After the hour's White House conference, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex.) told reporters: "He (the president) authorized us to say he will enforce the law."

Asked if their was any thought of government seizure of the mines, Rayburn said, "no, no."

Mr. Truman's action points to some climax soon in the struggle that has gone on between Lewis and his miners, on the one hand, and the coal interests on the other since last June when the old mining contract expired.

The stakes are tremendous and touch thousands besides the principals.

For Lewis, a big point is whether he can get 15 cents a ton additional "royalty" for his miners' welfare fund. Under the old contract, the royalty has been 20 cents. But the millions it produced have not been enough to finance the benefits Lewis has handed out to aged and injured miners. Lewis must get more money or cut down the benefits.

Problems For Congress

Lewis' other main demand is for 95 cents a day wage rise for the miners whose basic daily wage is now $14.05.

The operators contend that coal cannot stand a price hike—that it is already in a precarious competitive situation due to increasing use of gas and oil as subsitutes.

On the outcome of the struggle may hinge, also, the future course of labor law in this country.

Since the coal situation developed, there have been increasing cries in Congress that big labor unions should be made subject to anti-trust laws.

The president's actions and the Taft-Hartley law itself will surely, too, be debated as issues in the coming congressional campaigns.

The presidential executive order itself said nothingk about a national emergency in so many words.

But Presidential Secretary Ross said that its issuance means that Mr. Truman now considers such an emergency exists.

He must make a finding in order to appoint a fact-finding board under the T-H law.

Bank Clerk Kills 3 At Tampa, Fla., Then Jumps Under Truck

TAMPA, Fla. — (AP) — Police have closed their books on the case of Anthony Slechta and the three relatives he killed before dying under the wheels of a heavy truck.

Detective Sgt. B. J. Roberts said the friendly New York bank clerk "just broke under the strain" of worrying for months about the health of his wife and her father. Slechta was 53.

The wife, Ann, 47, was found stabbed to death Saturday in her parents' home here. Also dead, and battered terribly, were her mother, Mrs. Peter Ruziak, about 70, and sister, Ellen Ruziak, 45.

Peace Justice J. G. Spicola, acting coroner, said "there is no question" Slechta killed the women and then jumped in front of the truck a block away.

Roberts said Mrs. Slechta was "neurotic" and Slechta had been worrying about her for a year. She was to have entered a hospital here for treatment Saturday.

Ziegler Favors More Gas Tax To Build Roads

IRON MOUNTAIN, Mich—A two cent increase in the gasoline tax and a 20 to 25 per cent boost in the price of commercial vehicle plates were proposed here Saturday by State Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler to make more funds available for highway improvement and construction.

Ziegler, speaking before the Upper Peninsula Road Builders association and the Upper Peninsula Branch of the Michigan Association of County Boards of Supervisors, said an increase in the gasoline tax would not necessarily mean an increase in the price of gasoline. He pointed out that gasoline "now costs more in Lansing than in Chicago, where there is a three-cent tax the same as in Michigan."

The road commission and supervisor groups approved a resolution urging Governor Williams to submit the highway financial problem to the legislature for consideration during the special session this spring. The resolution was offered by T. J. Nicholas, of Marquette, dean of U. P. county board chairmen.

Victor Knox, of Sault Ste. Marie, speaking before the two groups, urged defeat of any move for reapportionment under the present proposed formula, which, he said, has endorsement of southern Michigan labor organizations. If reapportionment is carried out under the formula, he asserted, the population of four counties—Wayne, Macomb, Genesee and Oakland—will control the state.

Proper distance for viewing a 16-inch television set is declared by the experts to be six to ten feet.

Mrs. Irene Wood, 44 of Gulliver was the fifth traffic victim. She was killed Feb. 2 when the car in which she was riding was struck by a train near Manistique.

Miss Duranceau, Life-Long County Resident, Dies

Miss Julia Duranceau, 74, of Gladstone Route One, member of a pioneer Delta county family, died at 8:25 this morning in St. Francis hospital. She had been ill for the past year and a stroke was the direct cause of her death.

She was born in Escanaba and until recent years operated a general store at Duranceau's Corners. She was a member of Holy Family parish.

Surviving are three brothers, Dona J., Escanaba; Peter of Detroit, and Charles H., Gladstone Route One.

The body was taken to the Boyce funeral home. Arrangements for the funeral are incomplete but services probably will be held Wednesday.
